DOUGH BALL 2019

You know the saying, “It takes a village”? No truer words can be said about the SFV JACL’s Dough Ball Booth at the Obon Festival on June 29th and 30th.

Thanks to the efforts of our fabulous paint crew, Phil Shigekuni, Harold Kameya, Kiyo Fukumoto and David Osako, our booth went from worn red and yellow to the sparkling SFV JACL colors of purple and white. They organized a paint party in early June to make sure all the pieces were ready in time for the set-up in late June. Great job guys!

The heart of the DB Booth are the enthusiastic volunteers who keep the crowds coming back for more - Nancy Takayama, Kiyo Fukumoto, Alexander Oda, Patty Takayama, Shawn Iwaoka, Michiko Kus, Karen Yoshino, Kim Gohata, Linda Kuratomi, Wolf Mahony, Dr. Randi Oyama, Tyson Tanaka, Linda Tanaka, Harold Kameya, Cathy Uchida and Marion Shigekuni.

This year we were fortunate to have many first-time volunteers - Angelo Mutia, Alyssa Cruz, Kim Lee, Diana Lau, Mike Santos, Taylor Beardsley, Kase Clark and Board Member May Wood and her daughter Kristen Schaefer and granddaughter Annie Wood. Thank you all for your dedication!

A special thanks to the hard-working crew that set-up and tore down the booth - Yas Gohata, Kay Oda, Kiyo Fukumoto, Alexander Oda, Dennis Okita, and the staff members from Bert Corona Charter Middle School. You are the foundation of our event!

Thank you Villagers for another successful year!

“SEARCHING for our Japanese American ROOTS”

A special day is being planned for the entire family and family friends. Save the date: Saturday, September 7th, from 1pm to 4 pm.

The San Fernando JACL and members of the San Fernando Valley Community Center are joining together to provide the opportunity for students and their parents to learn more about their Japanese cultural heritage.

We will explore our family tree and look at our historical past. We will explore reasons of how the Japanese people adapted to this new foreign country. Some of the things we will be sharing are:

- trying some judo techniques
- writing your last name in kanji (Japanese characters)
- learning how to play the taiko
- counting and speaking some Japanese words
- wearing Japanese clothes
- joining in a friendly game of ping pong

徳

We hope this experience will enhance your search for your ROOTS. Possibly, you will learn why we can be proud of our family members who survived and persevered as they achieved success in our community.

OUR TAMINARU FIELD TRIP TO THE LOS ANGELES MARITIME MUSEUM

School field trips take kids to faraway places to bring more awareness of the world. On June 15th, the SFVJACLers were a bunch of seniors who left the Valley for a day at the Los Angeles Maritime Museum. With our able docent, marifrance, the day started off well. It was a look at the morning, noon, and evening on Terminal Island. If you plan to go, you must plan it before the end of August since the museum will be closed for two years while undergoing major infrastructure upgrades. In the exhibit at the museum, Cousins, Priscilla Mio Mui and Evelyn Hashimoto Kita pointed out photos of their grandparents and parents and told us about the superior kendo club that went to Japan and won match after match. It was very personal for them as they spoke about the Mio Café, Dad in baseball uniform, Tuna fisherman, and Abalone divers. It made a huge difference to hear the stories from the Terminal Island children. To imagine the sandy soil where kids played barefooted and the hardworking women would heed the “toot” to the cannery any hour of the day when boats came in with their catch, sometimes even at midnight. The isseis (first generation) from Wakayama prefecture were expert fishermen with a language all their own.

With just 48 hours notice, one thousand men went to Manzanar. They were burly men who spoke Japanese and English with a seaman’s rough edge resulting in them being called “yogores”, most of them living in block 9 and 10 in the Manzanar Concentration Camp.

After the war, since there was no home to return to for the Terminal Islanders, they stayed in trailers, then settled in Long Beach. President of the Terminal Islanders Club, June Miyamoto Donovan, explained that after rebuilding their lives, the Terminal Islanders Club was established in 1971. The club would host New Year’s Day Festivities and an annual picnic. They produced an educational movie, “The Lost Village of Terminal Island”.

In 2002, the Terminal Island Japanese Memorial was dedicated at a site along Fish Harbor across from the Southwest Marina. The monument with a “torii” gate designed like a Shinto Shrine with a kanji that means “great fishing”. The centerpiece was an art work with two fisherman repairing nets. The architecture was done pro bono. To visualize where the people lived, there was an etching of the inner harbor and a poem written by Yukio Tatsumi. It says, “Black currents off of our shore, Fishes are plentiful, Yet hardships our parents endured, We remember”.

Although we shed some tears and felt intense sadness at the devastating loss of their village, we ultimately are more aware of the Terminal Islanders’ hearty souls and pride in their heritage.

Special thanks to Mitzi Kushida, who organized this outing. Thanks also to Al Kushida, who along with Mitzi for going that extra mile.

FORT SIL PROTEST AT JANM

Attorney Mia Yamamoto, a Poston internee, was the main speaker at a rally held in the courtyard of JANM on June 27. Hundreds of young and old, multi-ethnic people were there to hear Mia declare that “Never Again” is happening again to innocent children at Fort Sil Oklahoma where Native Americans in the 1800’s and Japanese were interned during WWII. At the same time similar rallies were taking place in the Japantowns of San Francisco, and San Jose.

Also appearing at the rally was the group who demonstrated at Fort Sil. They displayed thousands of cranes which were made for the occasion. The group was invited to appear at a follow-up demonstration to occur later this year.

Statements of protest from 13 community organizations, including the Pacific Southwest District of JACL, were read. Ann Burroughs, CEO of JANM spoke forcefully of the injustice of the incarceration. Our own JACL President, Nancy Takayama, was a participant in the evening’s program.

MC, Sanseis activists, Sean Miura and Mya Worrell led the rally in repeated shouts of, “Never Again is Now”. They vowed to continue protesting until these inhuman concentration camps were shut down.

Representing our Chapter at the event were Nancy Oda, representing “Only the Oaks Remain”, JP Deguzman, Nancy and Yas Gohata and Marion and Phil Shigekuni.

OUR LOST YEARS

By: Patricia Takayama

The premiere of Lane Nishikawa's film "Our Lost Years" opened to a packed house, on Sunday, June 23, 2019 at The Aratani Theater.

Through numerous interviews of Nisei and Sansei, Nishikawa chronicles the historic events that led to incarceration in WWII relocation camps and its social and political impact on the Japanese American community.

Among those local personalities interviewed were two founders of the National Coalition of Redress and Reparations. Board member Phil Shigekuni, who led the campaign in the Valley was also interviewed.

Nishikawa reminds us how shame and Embarrassment kept the camp experience a secret for decades until the sanseis discovered information about America's Concentration Camps. In the midst of the civil rights movement, Asian American youth found a purpose and under the leadership of Edison Uno began formulating a plan to seek a public apology and reparations for innocent Japanese American internees.

Recognizing the importance of the JACL, as the sole Japanese American national civil rights organization with a presence in Washington, D.C., Edison Uno began attending every JACL National Convention beginning in 1970, to gain their support. It wasn't until 1976, when Mike Matsuoka came out in support of reparations, not just an apology, that a push toward a legislative remedy could begin. Japanese American political and community organizations began organizing in earnest.

By 1978 legislation was introduced to seek an apology and reparations, but Senator Inouye, a 442 veteran, convinced community supporters of the bill, over numerous objections, that a commission hearing was necessary to learn more about the conditions and circumstances of those incarcerated in the camps.

NCCR, among other community organizations, insisted that commission hearing be held on the west coast, not just in Washington, D.C. Testimony by Isseis and Niseis at the Commission Hearings on the Wartime Relocation Camps revealed the decades of shame, loss and suffering they endured, that spontaneously spilled out before a usually stoic community and family members whose unrestrained tears overflowed.

The testimony was instrumental in the Commission's recommendation to support not only an apology, but also, $20,000 reparation for each surviving internee. Testimony offered was in many ways cathartic not only for the Isseis and Niseis but it provided the Sanseis a deeper understanding of the reason the Niseis never spoke about the camp experience.

Watch for this film "Our Lost Years" as we will be bringing Lane Nishikawa's film to the San Fernando Valley.

A PLEA FROM THE SCHOLARSHIP DESK

DID YOU KNOW...

- SFVJACL offered its first scholarship 60 years ago this year, in 1959?
- Sam and Terry Uyehara were the brains behind the original scholarship program?
- Former scholarship chairs included Harriet Nishizaka, Ron Yoshida, and Sumi Yamaguchi.
- The SFVJACL Holiday Boutique of the 1970s and 1980s helped fund scholarships?
- Dr. Mary Sakaguchi Oda generously endowed two scholarships in the 1970s and 1980s—one for Japanese Americans and other for Mexican Americans—in honor of her late son, Eugene.
- Thirty years later, Dr. Oda's brother, Dr. Bo Sakaguchi endowed a new scholarship in honor of their elder brother and longtime benefactor, Dr. Sanbo Sakaguchi.
- Our scholarship winners have gone on to become attorneys, community activists, journalists, medical professionals and more?
- This past year not a single student applied to our scholarship program?

Although we want to make our scholarships as inclusive as possible (e.g., we do not require unattainably high scores) we do ask students to articulate their interest in civil rights. We also try to recognize community service. These twin interests are, after all, at the heart of our organization. Are students intimidated by this? Perhaps. Maybe they may not be familiar with our organization and all of our opportunities to support young people.

If YOU want to see the legacy that the Nisei pioneers established to support young people continue, our board needs YOU to publicize SFVJACL to the high school and college aged young people in your lives: children, grandkids, nieces, nephews, youth at your church or temple, neighborhood kids, etc. JACL, at the chapter, regional, and national level, is a civil rights organization that supports the next generation through opportunities for networking, internships, leadership skills, and, most directly, scholarships for the ever-growing costs of quality higher education. Please, tell your young people about our chapter: www.jacl.org or check us out on Facebook.

Have thoughts on how to reinvigorate our scholarship program? Or, want to join our committee? We're all ears: email deguzman.ucla@gmail.com.

This special one-hour concert is designed just for you to relive those carefree days of dancing to the sounds of Carry On, Free Flight and Winfield Summit, and the after-dance good eats at Holiday Bowl or Mago's.
